

It's a Small World: Sprout Home Terrariums

Written by Claire Perkins

It's a Small World

I've always been O B S E S S E D with little worlds and globes and flea circus' and Sea Monkeys...the list goes on. God complex, I know.

Today I was lost after a meeting and wandered into a little greenery-filled boutique in Chicago's West Town area called Sprout Home. The store carried tons of plants, but also crazy vessels for storing them, different soils and sands and even little figurines to populate your handcrafted ecosphere. They offer $25 terrarium classes where they teach you how to build your own little magic land. I'm so taking one!

I visited their site and they sell almost everything from the store online and ship it right to your doorstep! Of course you can find soil and plants in AZ, but the little extras sold here are hard to find.

Sprout Home, prices vary.
