"Florals? For spring? Groundbreaking..." –Miranda Priestly in The Devil Wears Prada. While florals for spring may not be groundbreaking, florals for fall and winter just might be. Be prepared to see floral prints take us from summer to fall and into winter, because a big trend seen on the runways last spring was dark florals. We love this trend because it mixes the femininity and delicateness of flowers with a darker, rocker chic vibe.

Love this trend too? Wear it from head to toe with a full dark floral print suite.

Pantsuits aren't for you? Gather some inspiration from a more classic piece like this chic dress.

Maybe you need something a bit more casual. Incorporate this trend with a printed cardigan, scarf or shawl.

However you choose to wear this trend, we just know that these brooding blooms are giving us all the fall feels.
