

The Business School for Entrepreneurs

Written by Arizona Foothills Magazine

Thursday, 06 October 2011 10:43 -

Wouldn't it be cool if all you needed to know about starting a business was taught in a few tidy courses? Girlfriend University at Scottsdale Quarter offers information, education and inspiration for girlfriends starting businesses.

Guys don't shy away, about one-third of every class is filled with our guyfriends. Co-Founder, Renee Dee, says Girlfriend University is a smart way to launch a business. "We teach you what you need to know to create a successful launch or how to take your business results to the next level. Our belief is that information is power...it's the key to dynamic results and making your marketing dollars work for you," says Dee.

Girlfriend University offers classes on social media, branding, media training, sales success, business planning, marketing and public relations and more. "A lot of our students like to work with us to design their marketing plan in a one-time session that produces explosive results," says Jodi Low, Co-Founder of Girlfriend University. And for the entrepreneurs who want to amplify their results with massive enthusiasm, passion, confidence and clarity, a weekend personal development boot camp sets your mindset to success. Sign up for a class at girlfrienduniversity.com or call the GU concierge at 480.278.7200 to find out how the girlfriends can help you create the success you deserve.